PRESS RELEASE

July 9, 2019

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Conference Equipping Men With Better Parenting Skills Making Strides

For organizer of the conference, Paul Smith, who is the Parish Medical Social Worker at the St. Elizabeth Health Services, the forum also provides opportunities for the participants to be mentored.

He added that based on the evidences that various studies have concluded in relation to the impact of fatherlessness on society, fathers who are actually playing their roles must be found, acknowledged and empowered.

We explored issues like domestic violence, parenting and stress and we also broadened the focus on men's health. The men were provided with blood sugar, blood pressure and cholesterol tests, HIV testing, electrocardiogram-ECG screening and screening for prostate cancer" Mr. Smith explained.

The Medical Social Worker appealed to the men to be the agent of change in rebuilding the walls of fatherhood around families, adding that fathers have to teach boys to be good men and girls to be good women.

"It is important that as fathers you care for your children; give them attention, love and respect the mother of your children, be the change and end domestic violence. We need to change what is happening" Mr. Smith urged.
